On the rapidly accelerating world systems change...

A busy couple of months, and a crucial moment it seems, so did a better job of these than usual

- Large photos made the file unmanageable, so they're linked.
- There's a total of 261 JLH Tweets (replying to 116) + 147 wide casts to lists of organizations
- The Table cells go from 1 to 193. In the PDF, the Notes column is a place for inserting comments
- This list is the first to be published this way. Others may follow if time allows.

			"Our Roadmap shows the priority actions that are needed today to ensure the opportunity of net-zero emissions by 2050 – narrow but still achievable – is not lost. The scale and speed of the efforts demanded by this critical and formidable goal – our best chance of tackling climate change and limiting global warming to 1.5 °C – make this perhaps the greatest challenge humankind has ever faced," said Fatih Birol, the IEA Executive Director. "The IEA's pathway to this brighter future brings a historic surge in clean energy investment that creates millions of new jobs and lifts global economic growth. Moving the world onto that pathway requires strong and credible policy actions from governments, underpinned by much greater international cooperation." Building on the IEA's unrivalled energy modelling tools and expertise, the Roadmap sets out more than 400 milestones to guide the global journey to net zero by 2050. These include, from today, no investment in new fossil fuel supply projects, and no further final investment decisions for new unabated coal plants. By 2035, there are no sales of new internal combustion engine passenger cars, and by 2040, the global electricity sector has already reached net-zero emissions. 4 31 136 5,661 =  J.L.
